

SEEKING THERAPISTS

1) Linda is desirous of expanding her network of clinicians across the country to provide follow-up treatment to families who have completed her intensive treatment program for reunification therapy.

She is seeking licensed mental health clinicians who have a grounding in family therapy and have become educated with the latest knowledge about parental alienation. She will remain involved in the follow-up treatment to collaborate with the therapist for the provision of ongoing services in order to assure that the goals that were achieved in her therapy are maintained.

If you have an interest and ability to handle these families, please send your CV/resume with contact information to Linda at end.pas@verizon.net.

2) Linda would like to train the next generation of alienation therapists. If you are interested in attending workshops in which you will learn how to identify alienation and distinguish it from estrangement and how to provide treatment for severe parental rejection, please send your CV/resume and contact information to Linda at end.pas@verizon.net. Linda is willing to travel to any location if a sufficient number of therapists participate in the training. At the conclusion of the training, she will provide a certificate that you have completed such training. Fees for the training is dependent upon the number of participants. Talk to your colleagues to sign them up!
